

Her Part of the Worry.
One of Washington's bright women was present while her husband discussed the financial situation.
"I must confess," he said, "that the money market has worried me a great deal."
"It wasn't the money market that worried me," observed his wife.
"What was it?"
"It was the market money,"—Washington Star.

Miscellaneous Notes.

One advantage in applying manure in the orchard late in the fall or early in the winter is that it will act as a mulch during the winter, while the more soluble portions will be carried into the soil.

If all the old and waste corners on every farm were planted to mammoth Russian sunflowers, enough of the seed could be harvested to keep a large stock of poultry and there is no seed that is better for them when moulting or for laying hens. If horses can be got to eat them on occasional feed of a pint is good for them, but some horses will not eat them.

"German Syrup"

I am a farmer at Edom, Texas. I have used German Syrup for six years successfully for Sore Throat, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Pains in Chest and Lungs and Spitting-up of Blood. I have tried many kinds of Cough Syrups in my time, but let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best. We are subject to so many sudden changes from cold to hot, damp weather here, but in families where German Syrup is used there is little trouble from colds. John F. Jones.

Old Time Methods of treating Colds and Coughs were based on the idea of suppression. We now know that "feeding a cold" is good doctrine.

Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil with hypophosphites, a rich fat-food, cures the most stubborn cough when ordinary medicines have failed. Pleasant to take; easy to digest.

Prepared by Scott & Borne, N. Y., A. D. 1905.

MERCURIAL Mr. J. C. Jones, of Arkansas, says: "About ten years ago I contracted a severe case of blood poisoning. Leading physicians prescribed medicine after medicine, but I took without any relief. I also tried mercurial and other remedies, with unsuccessful results, but which brought on an attack of mercurial rheumatism that made my life miserable. After suffering four years I gave up all remedies and began using S. S. S. After taking several bottles I was entirely cured and able to resume work. It is the greatest medicine for blood poisoning today on the market."

While making an excavation at North End Tuesday the rock island struck an artesian spring with a flow of water as large as one's body. A well 10 feet across and 6 feet deep was placed around the spring, and water quickly rose and ran over it. It is as clear as crystal. It will be developed for a system of water works.

On Wednesday the work of attending to the mail filings at the land office was begun and will be completed as rapidly as possible. There are several hundred of these filings, which by the recent ruling of the commissioner of the general land office, are to date from the time of their reception through the post office.

Whether Uncle Sam had any design in the matter or not it seems from the following descriptions of the Indian Territory lands yet to be opened, that the best have been saved to the last. Even the Kaws have joined in the rush to dispose of their surplus acres and have caught the white man's trick of booming them away up.

At Yukon on last Monday considerable excitement was occasioned by a mysterious death in a Bohemian family. A woman took sick and the husband of the family looked his house and went to making a coffin. The woman died, and the neighbors suspected she was poisoned. The coroner failed to look after the case and it looks as though it had gone by default.

A Guthrie Leader: Letters have been received in this city from Hon. John L. Mitchell, world's fair representative, tendering to Guthrie the Oklahoma pavilion now at the world's fair. The pavilion has also been tendered to Oklahoma City, and one of these two cities will secure the prize. The pavilion is filled with Oklahoma products and possesses great historic value.

A suit for damages is now on trial before the court in Guthrie that is novel in its origin. The News describes it thus: "This is a case where Coppuss Hixon as sheriff and his lopp-men for $5,000 damage, alleging that while confined in the county jail he was taken before a mock court, held by the prisoners, on the charge of 'breaking into jail' fined 50 cents for the offense, and upon his refusal to pay the same was laid across a box and held while a burly negro prisoner administered fifty lashes in lieu of the fine not paid. As a consequence he was injured bodily and mentally, his feelings lacerated and his good name damaged to the extent above named."

A man living near the salt plains, twenty miles northeast of Alva, worked faithfully for several days digging a well through the rock and when he found water it was so salty it was unfit for use. He didn't get it, but he said he would dig a better one in his house, and would utilize the well in a reservoir for pickles and sour kraut, and he will plant nothing but cucumbers and cabbage next spring.

Not far from the mouth of the executive of the territory at Guthrie, a man has been indicted for receiving stolen goods. He is charged with receiving stolen goods from the Indian Territory, and is charged with receiving stolen goods from the Indian Territory, and is charged with receiving stolen goods from the Indian Territory.

Long Tom, blue jacket and little A. A. three Shawnee Indians, were arrested Wednesday in the district court at Oklahoma City on the charge of murder, in which they plead not guilty, and the jury has set for Nov. 30.

The crime with which the Indians are charged is the killing of two men in the alleged defense of their property nearly two years ago. Several times the case has been set for hearing, and the defendants have always been punctual in attendance on the court, but each time, under various pretexts, the case was sent over. Of the two defendants Long Tom is the most picturesque figure. He is a splendid specimen of the fast developing race of Shawnees, and in his long life he has borne a good reputation for his friendship to the whites and his loyalty to the great father at Washington.

Guthrie Leader: S. W. Burch of Montana, William Henry of Boston, Mass., M. Singleton of Philadelphia, and Frank Drake of this city, are organizing a company to build a railway to the coal beds recently discovered east of Perry, in the Cherokee strip, and also to develop the extensive cement deposits in the same section.

A New Ology.
That pupil was a bright one; so bright in fact, that when it came to writing she became redundant in adjectives.

"My dear," said her teacher one day, going over one of her efforts, "you use too many words and phrases meaning the same thing. Don't you know that is tautology?"

"It seems to me," she replied, "that it is tautology; wait until I have been at it a little longer," and the teacher is waiting in great hopefulness. —Detroit Free Press.

Shocked.
"I was very much shocked," said Hanlow, meeting Jarley on the street, "when I saw Bronson this morning. He looked ten years older than when I saw him last."

"Then did you see him last?" "Bronson?" Oh, I guess he has been some fifteen years since I'd seen Bronson last. —Harper's Bazar.

There is no use trying it—you can't crop land continuously without feeding it. Perhaps you have been trying to do so, and that is the reason you think farming doesn't pay. It never will pay, in that way. Begin now. If you have never done so before, to study how to feed the soil. —Mirror and Farm.

The experiment of shipping Florida oranges to London has been very successful. The steamer Campania took to England 216 boxes, which went off readily at $3.43 per box. The Germanic carried 1,800 boxes.

Bachelors and Spinsters.
A parliamentary blue book relating to the last census for England and Wales shows that there were taken 8,716,363 unmarried males and 8,908,665 unmarried females. 4,851,548 married males and 4,916,649 married females, 484,990 widowers and 1,124,310 widows.

Police Justice.—"The policeman says you were seen going along the streets wearing three suits of clothes from which the price-mark had been removed. What have you got to say for yourself?" Beryl Howes—"Seems to me, judge, that a cop won't pinch a man just for being a little over-dressed in too much of a dood to be allowed to stay on the force."

A Fact Worth Remembering.
There are many such of course, but here is one which specially commands itself to the mind, viz., that in order to acquire vigor, the basis of health, that invigoration is only possible by re-establishing the functions of digestion and assimilation upon a permanent basis. Stomachic is name are numberless. They impart a slight stimulus to appetite—nothing beyond this. Much more is required, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters fills the bill. This time-honored standard invigorant builds up an enfeebled physique and protects it against disease by insuring the thorough conversion of the aliment received into the stomach into blood and bodily tissue. Clothed with medicinal virtues, the enfeebling action of the system is defended against invader, and the system is defended against invader, and the system is defended against invader.

MARKED BY THE DEVIL'S HOOF.

The Strange Story Told by an Old Negro in Missouri.

Henry Rice, an aged negro who resides, or did, not more than a year ago, at Rolla, this state, says the St. Louis Republic, makes what is probably the most remarkable claim that ever came from the mouth of a human being—viz.: That he had sold his soul to the devil and that his Satanic majesty sealed the bargain by putting his trade mark on the negro's breast. In support of this preposterous statement Rice exhibits a deep scar situated directly over the heart, which appears to have been burned deep into the flesh with a branding iron about the shape and size of the hoof of a two-year-old heifer. This scar, the old negro declares, is the print or mark of the devil's hoof, and that it is a memorial of a compact which he made with the king of the sulphurous regions away back in slavery days. According to the terms of the contract the negro is to have supernatural powers over his race during the few fleeting days that he remains a tenant on earth, and that when all is over his soul is to go—not to God, who gave it, but to the devil, who has marked it as his own. When Rice and the devil had settled on the conditions outlined above, the lessee of the negro's soul placed his cloven hoof over the heart of the wicked old African and left its indelible impress, as evidence of his future proprietary right to burn the old man to his heart's content.

Looked Like Cassius.
At a great meeting held in Cooper institute in October, 1877, at which it had been announced that Mr. Evans would be present, there was in the audience a Vermont man who had never seen the secretary of state, but was very desirous to do so.

He said in an anxious tone to the person next him, "Is Mr. Evans on the platform?"

"No he hasn't yet arrived," replied the person thus addressed.

"He's expected, ain't he?"

"Oh, yes, he'll be along presently."

"I've never seen Mr. Evans, though I've heard a sight about him. He's got a farm up to Windsor in our State."

"Well, when he comes in I'll tell you. The boys usually give him a cheer when he comes on the stage. Ah, there he comes!"

"Is that him?"

"Yes."

"William M. Evans?" (with evident doubt.)

"Certainly it is."

"Well, I swanny!" exclaimed the Vermont man. "Why he looks as if he boarded."

Romance of the Bavarian Court.
The gossip of the Bavarian court is just now centered in a little romance, of which the heroine is the daughter of Prince Leopold Maximilian of Bavaria, Princess Augusta Marie Louise. The princess is at the impressionable age of nineteen, and some time ago she fell in love with a handsome young lieutenant in the light cavalry. The match was, of course, unacceptable to the royal parents, and the lieutenant was exiled to a far-off garrison and forbidden to come to Munich, in the hope that the princess would overcome her passion and forget him. His absence, however, had a contrary effect; she fell ill and pined, and Prince Leopold has at last been constrained to give his consent to the union of the young lovers.

A Comfortable Hen House.
Correspondence National Stockman: About two years ago I conceived the idea of producing eggs during the winter when the supply is limited and the price is high. Observing that when the hens had cold or frozen food they did not lay, I decided to arrange a hen house in which the hens would be comfortable on the roost, nest or floor. I built a house similar to some described in the Stockman, with this exception: I filled up inside with earth, about a foot, built a furnace in one end and a chimney in the other, connecting these by two rows of four inch tile, four inches below the surface of this earthen floor tile being about equally distant from the walls and each other. These conducted the smoke to the chimney and warmed the ground, so that the hens were perfectly comfortable anywhere in the house. No need of a dust box, as the ground floor is always dusty.

Turnips, parsnips, carrots and beets may be stored in pits outside of the barn, or in mounds. One of the methods that has been tried with success is to store them in bins, using dry sand to fill in between. This method permits of using them at any time, while, if they are stored in pits, they may be sealed up by the frost.

All a Matter of Figures.
"Brown, old boy, I heard you're going to be married—and a fine girl, too, eh?"

"Well, yes, she has a very comely figure."

"Oh, but that's aside from the question. How about the incomey figure?"

THE AMICK DISCOVERY.

On another page of this issue is an exhaustive article on the treatment and cure of consumption. The subject has lately been brought to the attention of the press of the entire country as a result of the action of the Michigan Board of Health in declaring consumption a contagious disease, and recommending isolation of affected persons to special hospitals erected for the purpose. Should other state boards of health follow the example of the Michigan body, it seems impossible to measure what the consequences would be. The New York Recorder, actuated by that spirit which should pervade every editorial sanctum, offered a reward of $1,000 to any physician effecting a cure for consumption. The offer was promptly accepted by Dr. W. L. Amick of Cincinnati, who had already distinguished himself by curing some patients selected by the Cincinnati Post newspaper. The management of the Recorder selected ten patients in various stages of consumption. The article referred to tells the story of Dr. Amick's success and of the payment of the $1,000 by the Recorder company. Dr. Amick shows not only his willingness but his great desire to have his treatment impartially tested before any money for the medicines has been expended by the affected. He offers to send to all local physicians, regardless of school or code or creed, test packages of his medicines sufficient to show just what results will be produced in each case. The fact that these outfits are only sent to the patient through his or her physician is a guarantee that they will stand the test to which they may be subjected by medical experts. Dr. Amick is willing to let each physician and each patient judge as to whether he has accomplished what he claims. There is already the testimony of physicians and patients who have found reasons for endorsing the discovery. In the face of such evidence of its worth there can be but little hesitancy in pronouncing the discovery a great boon to suffering mankind, and therefore of incalculable benefit to the whole human race.

In fact, they all thought he was dead. I gave him Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pellets and they saved his life. We have never since had any liver or other trouble, and found such perfect relief that we can recommend it very highly."
